We asked our users: "What is your greatest accomplishment?"

I haven't had too many accomplishments but the one thing I am most proud of are the ones that call me mom I have carried, brought into this world, loved and nurtured, taught and raised four beautiful children and without them, life would be a little less fun and a little more dull. I am grateful and blessed to have them in my life. - Bobbi Gonzales

The accomplishment that I'm most proud of as of yet is my college career as a whole. I feel like I have grown up a lot since I started college as well as accomplished more than I expected from myself. When looking back on who I was before I started college and who I am now I'm shocked by the transformation but I'm also humbled by all I've learned about the world and myself. That being said though, I know that I still have a lot of moments ahead of me to be proud of. - Brianna LaRouche

Brethren, I do not count myself to have apprehended; but one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind and reaching forward to those things which are ahead, I press toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus.
