Positively Possible

with Austin

A young married couple reached out and asked for some advice on how to lead a conversation with a friend who needs Jesus in his life. This young couple told me that another young married couple was planning on coming to help out with the conversation, and hopefully, Bible study.

This is happening behind the scenes, unbeknownst to many (self-included until I was told). I can't tell you how encouraging it was to hear that people cared enough about a friend to have a hard conversation. That they were willing to open up their home to a small group for dinner and spiritual talk. That they were humble enough to ask for help. That they were courageous enough to allow God to use them.

You may not think this is possible in your own life. But trust me when I say, with God all things are (positively) possible!
