Positively Possible

with Austin

An older brother in Christ approached me after the Wednesday night devotion and offered me a gift. He told me that sometimes preachers may feel trapped by their title and therefore unable to be a real person and "normal" Christian with others. He told me that if there was ever a time where I was wrestling with a biblical text, felt overwhelmed by the task of ministering to 300+ individuals, or just needed to vent, he would be there for me. He then said, he only wants to listen.

I need to say that I am moved by his offer. How thoughtful. How caring. How kind. Actions like this are worthy of recognition and honor since they, so beautifully, glorify God above! So to all you encouragers and Christian comforters out there, keep going and keep caring! You may not think you are able to be such a person, and alone, you're not. But I want you never to forget, with God all things are [positively] possible!
